THE NEW
REMINGTON
Sewing Machine
STILL STANDS
UNRIVALLED.
All competent judges acknowledge it to be the shuttest, the easiest, the quietest and the most easily handled of any shuttle machine now in market. It will sew with perfect stitch, from the finest muslin to the heaviest and firmest beaver cloth, or leather, without change of stitch, needle, thread or tension. Its percentage of increase of sales in 1874 was 94½ per cent. and 82½ per cent. more than any other machine. In 1875 its ratio of increase was still greater, being 101 per cent. More than fifteen thousand other machines of first class make have already been exchanged for it.
No person wishing a sewing machine can do themselves justice, whatever their prejudice, if they fail to examine the New Remington before purchasing. Five dollars a month will buy you a Remington at 35 BROADWAY.

TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1876.

THE PRESSED GENTIAN.

The time of gifts has come again,
And, on my northern window-pane
Outlined against the day's brief light,
A Christmas token hangs in sight.
The wayside traveller, as they pass,
Mark the gray disk of clouded glass;
And the dull blankness seems, perchance,
Folly to their wise ignorance.

They cannot from their outlook see
The perfect grace it hath for me;
For there the flower whose fringes through
The frosty breath of autumn blew,
Turns from without its face of bloom
To the warm tropic of my room,
As fair as when beside its brook
The hue of bending skies it took.

So, from the trodden ways of earth,
Seem some sweet souls who veil their worth,
And offer to the careless glance
The clouding gray of circumstance.
They blossom best where hearth-fires burn,
To loving eyes alone they turn
The flowers of inward grace, that hide
Their beauty from the world outside.

But deeper meanings come to me,
My half-immortal flower, from thee!
Man judges from a partial view,
None ever yet his brother knew;
The eternal eye that sees the whole
May better read the darkened soul,
And find, to outward sense denied,
The flower upon its inmost side!
—J. G. Whittier in St. Nicholas for March.

One New Years in a Thousand.

[Harriet Prescott Spofford in Harper's Bazar.]
[Concluded.]

If crying would have brought him back, Will Maunder could have sailed to Betty on a flood of tears but tears being useless, Betty scorned to shed them. She had no idea where he was, except of the vague rumor that spoke of him as sheep-raising somewhere in the Carolinas. If she had, having sent him off in her prosperity, she could not call him back in her calamity. So she braced herself to bear her trials as she might, and to bear them, as she sometimes said to herself, in a way Will would have approved; and she laughed bitterly at herself to think of the sentimental idiot she had been, and of the innocent young Italian on whom she had poured out the burden of her vain fancies; and her clear, dark cheeks reddened redder than their wont at thought of the light in which the clear-headed Will must have held her infatuation.

Betty's cheeks, though, had never lost their carnation: she was no older than before, so far as her beauty was concerned: only into the radiant face there had stolen a new expression, perhaps called out by the necessity of so much tenderness toward her sick father and disconsolate mother, perhaps by the longing for a once neglected presence, the hope growing more patient, that it might yet return—the sense, growing daily more humble, that nothing had befallen her but what she sadly deserved.

And then the long war broke out, and in all its course no word of Will. She thought he might be in it. She was sure his blood must be stirred. She looked for his name in the bulletins, in the promoted, in the dead and missing, in the discharged, in the forlorn-hopes; she longed to do something for him, now that it was impossible—to encourage him, to help him, if she could only once find his name. She never did. And when at last peace was declared, there came through the obscure channels in which all such news runs, not to be verified, and yet too authentic for disbelief, the report that he had been a conscript of the Confederates, had fallen in his first battle, and had died in a hospital.

And her act had killed him! Betty Wilmarth sat down, that day, in despair. For what had she been born, when, out of her insignificance, she had wrought such evil as this? A murderess—that was what she was! The murderess, too, of the best friend a woman ever had; by a whim, a mere whim, she had brought disaster and ruin on her family—she had brought a strong man down to his grave. By a whim? No, oh no! By the blackness of her heart! And it was in sackcloth and ashes that she sat while Summer and Autumn crept by. She loathed herself. She felt that even God must loathe her; every one must loathe her that knew her as Will Maunder's murderess. The earth was dark; for her the sun ceased to shine; the faces of all she saw were blanks, they seemed to belong to a people of another race; there was nobody of her race—a woman with the blood of her best friend on her hands! Day after day a gloom seemed to gather thicker and darker, over the world: it was a place of graves; all those that went by were born only to suffer and die—to suffer and die, and after death the judgment.

And then, her thoughts galling too much for her, Betty would start up and walk for miles, to walk off the horror that oppressed her, the horror that made life seem not worth living; that made life seem impossible to live, and yet did not let her dare to die. Nothing was any pleasure to Betty now. Her father's affairs had brightened; they had retaken their old house; her mother's health was restored; the girls had come from school, content and happy, and ready to take Betty's scepter where she dropped it. But she was pleased for their sakes—for herself it made no difference. The color had forsaken her sweet cheeks at length; her eyes were dim with her long crying; she sat for hours together nursing straight before her, conscious of nothing whatever but that she had been the death of Will Maunder.

How she missed him now at every turn! the ready smile, the tender word, the helping deed, the admiring look, the persuasion that she could do nothing wrong! If he were only here in her trouble, he would clear it all away, as a strong west wind blows the clouds. But no: she would be having no trouble if she had not sent Will out of reach; she would see him again—neither here nor hereafter, for the place where Will Maunder went with his white soul would be no place for his murderess. How strong he was, in those dead and gone days! how generous, how brave and true! and all for her it might have been. And she had been blind till the need of his daily care had made her turn and look; and now it was too late. When the first snow storm of the Winter came and she remembered that it was heaping his unknown grave, the cold terror of it chilled her marrow. All the gay Christmas season that he used to like so much, she sat in darkness. She forgot her father, and all the need of household cheer, and it was only when she saw the pitying faces down-stairs that she resolved to forget herself, her sin, and her grief, and help them to gather what sweetness there was in this life she had found so bitter. And she made her New Year's gifts ready, and helped her young sisters decorate the rooms and the simple table they could spread, and lent them her dainty ornaments that she used to value so, and that now at 25, she was done with.

It was a great, white snow-storm, though—a fierce, driving, drifting snow-storm—that wrapped the earth and sky when that day dawned, beginning the eventful year. They would be friends indeed who ventured through it. The girls and their chosen companions, nevertheless, were just as gay in the parlors as they could have been in the sunniest of weather, imagining arrivals, and, when nobody arrived, receiving each other in turn, as if there were a procession of callers at the door. They were none of them so sweet, so willful, so charming, as poor little Betty had been; not one of them had the dark, rich beauty that belonged to her yet; they never would have the train of guffants at the door that used to cross its threshold for Betty's sake. She wondered what they found to laugh at; in all the wide, sad world there was nothing at which she could smile: the very blowing of the gale, the whirling of the snow and sleet through the white, cold heavens, seemed only to answer her own misery. She sat in the little side parlor off the others, staring through the window with her wild and wretched gaze, though, for appearances, a book lay open in her lap. Her thoughts had gone upon their

THE DAY.

Courbet, the French painter, has a farm in the department of Doubs. This will be sold with some paintings, which it is to be hoped are not in that department, to defray the cost of the Vendome column.

In the United States Senate yesterday the financial question was discussed, Mr. Sherman making the principal speech. In the House, the debate on the Hawaiian treaty was continued, no vote being reached.

R. H. Dana, Jr's., last appearance in politics was as a rival of Gen. Butler. The Essex statesman doesn't seem to have as much influence with the government now as he had when he secured Simmons's appointment.

The municipal elections in Maine yesterday nearly all resulted in victories for the Republicans. Both Portland and Rockland were redeemed. The gains in other cities were considerable over the vote of last Spring.

The report of the House judiciary committee on General Belknap's impeachment was not presented yesterday. The articles are all ready, and, it is expected, will shortly be sent to the Senate. The ex-secretary was duly arraigned in the criminal court at Washington today. His residence is now guarded by a posse of police. Rumors of further corruptions multiply hourly at the capital, but can be traced to no authentic source. The appointment of Evans, the post trader at Fort Sill, has been revoked by the President. Nothing has yet been definitely determined upon regarding Belknap's successor.

Attorney General Pierrepont writes to Scott Lord that the letter for which he has been so severely criticised was written not to deter any one from turning state's evidence, but to deter district attorneys from showing favoritism, or letting more persons turn state's evidence than the government's case actually needed. The letter admits of this construction, but if this was what the Attorney General meant he might easily have said it in no ambiguous terms. When he said that no person who "confessed himself guilty" should be suffered "to escape punishment" it looked a little as if he didn't want any state's evidence at all. His explanation of the way this private and confidential communication came to be published is interesting. He says:—"I waited for the opportunity, and have now ascertained that General Babcock, or some one for him, who had access to the President's papers, obtained a copy of the letter without any knowledge on the part of the President," and that the same was used in a manner now known to all, but under whose advice the Attorney-General does not know. We can hear in the distance the echoes of Boss Shepherd's voice chanting "For right is right, as God is God, and right the day has won," apropos of Babcock's acquittal. According to the Attorney General Babcock is a nice kind of a private secretary. Pierrepont says there is absolutely no foundation for the story that he had got "points" from Dyer and given them to Babcock's counsel. Babcock has left the White House, says the New York Sun, on account of this little breach of trust.

OUR ENGLISH MISSION.

What demon of misrule has got possession of our government? To whom are we indebted for the tragedy of errors through which our country is passing? We do not allude to the President's acceptance of Belknap's resignation for which we believe he has been unjustly criticized, though it was a singular act for a man who never removes men under fire, but we refer to Schenck's resignation. For four years the folly, not to call it crime, of our minister at London has been a stench in the nostrils of all sensitive American citizens, yet that official has not been dismissed or called on to resign. It is understood that he has offered his resignation and it has been refused. Because he has been "under fire" the President has for more than four years stood by him, which was perhaps well enough if it had been persevered in. At least, it would have been only an unwise tenacity growing out of personal friendship and a belief in the minister's innocence. But as Gen. Schenck was leaving England to "vindicate" himself at Washington he was served with a summons to appear at the court of queen's bench to respond to a charge of fraud. He gracefully referred the officer to the English minister for foreign affairs and took the cars for Liverpool. Directly after the service of summons on him is announced here, and while Gen. Schenck is on the ocean, his resignation is accepted and his successor appointed. What resignation? Either one sent by Atlantic cable after the service of the summons, or one that has been lying on the President's table ready to be accepted when it became necessary. When Schenck published a card in a London paper announcing his intention to vindicate himself at once in Washington he said nothing about any resignation. He said he "had obtained leave of absence from his government," implying that after he had vindicated himself he would return. As soon as he gets fairly off of English soil his "resignation" is accepted and his successor is appointed.

If this thing had been arranged by some malevolent intelligence it wouldn't a been done worse. Any time for four years Schenck might have resigned and come home with some decency and dignity, but if Schenck resigned by telegraph from Liverpool it is a confession of guilt, and if the government has just accepted a standing resignation it is evidence that the government believes him guilty. But the government has no more evidence of his guilt now than it has had, or might easily have obtained at any time since the Fall of 1871. Is it a fact that the government will stand by a man until he is arraigned at the bar and must either be convicted or plead his official immunities, and then allows him to escape, and interposes itself between him and his pursuers? Probably the acceptance of Schenck's resignation after four years of scandal, but immediately after swindled English capitalists had brought a criminal action against him, was the very worst thing for the reputation of Schenck, the President and the United States generally that could have been done. Schenck's position is that of a man who flees the country at the prospect of appearing in court, and after giving the impression that he is coming back, and our government will be looked upon by European nations as one that backs up its knavish officials while they choose to play bluff, and protects them when they prefer to run away.

The appointment of R. H. Dana, Jr., of Boston, to the English mission is an admirable one, but it will take a long time to efface from English memories Schenck and his legacy.

PERIODICALS.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY.

This new magazine,—begun in January,—is quite remarkable for its excellence and its cheapness. The March number contains 128 pages and about a hundred illustrations, one of which is colored. As it is published at $2.50 a year, or twenty cents a number, it gives more for the price than almost any other periodical. The contents are varied, affording both instruction and amusement. This number begins with a profusely illustrated article on the Suez canal. There are articles on the Dolleries of Gotham, Fashions Oriental and Occidental, Gillian, a story, Duck Shooting, An American's Visit to Munich, The Church Clock's Secret, a story, A Memento Mori Watch, Richelieu, by the author of Mirabeau, reprinted from an English review, The Serf's Revenge, a story of a Siberian exile by Col. T. W. Knox, An Armful of Oven Wood, a story, The Pink Countess, by Joaquin Miller, continued story, Dreaming and Sleep-Walking, An Elephant's Devotion, What Becomes of the Precious Metals, Miss Molly Dimond, story, Sealing in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Assassination of Abraham Lincoln, and several other papers.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE,

Vick's Floral Guide, No. 2, 1876, is received. It is of great value to all persons who have gardens or keep houseplants. This pamphlet is full of pictures and directions for raising plants. James Vick of Rochester is one of the most enterprising florists in the country, and he is a good man to get seeds and roots from.

AN OLD STORY.

"ONE OF THE "SCANDALS OF THE INDECENT PRESS" FOUR YEARS AGO.

(From the N. Y. Tribune, February 16, 1872.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15, 1872.

Army officers stationed at posts in the West complain of the extortions practised by the post traders, and of the gross abuses practised under the law which authorizes their appointment. These traders are giving the exclusive privilege of selling goods upon the military reservations to the officers, soldiers, emigrants and Indians. The privilege is so valuable that it is obtained by political influence at Washington by men who never go to the posts or engage in the business, but give the privilege to actual traders for sums amounting, in some cases, to $10,000 or $12,000 a year. The traders occupy relations to the army similar to those the sutlers held during the war, with this exception, that the sutlers were under control of the post commanders, and the soldiers were protected against the rapacity by the power of a council of officers to fix a tariff of prices at which goods should be sold; whereas the traders are appointed by the Secretary of War, and, having no competition, and being under no control, charge any price they please. The sutlers were abolished at the close of the war, and the commissary department was required to furnish the necessary articles formerly kept by the sutlers, and to sell them to the soldiers at cost price. This law the commissaries found irksome, and they have always managed to evade it. Soon after it went into effect the adjutant general issued an order allowing any one to trade at a military post who should show fitness to the department commander. This was a good advantage for the troops, for it gave them the advantage of competition, but it did not suit the traders who have always sought exclusive privileges. It lasted until the Summer of 1870, when, on the recommendation of the Secretary of War, a section was put into the army bill authorizing the Secretary to appoint one or more traders at each military post for the convenience of emigrants, freighters and other citizens. The section was plausibly worded, and passed without objection. Under it the secretary appoints but one trader at each post, and refuses to appoint more, so that this single trader, having a monopoly of the business, plunders the officers and men by charging them outrageous prices. There is no escape from his rapacity, because the officers have no control over him, as they had over the sutler. There is good authority for stating that traders' privileges are systematically farmed out by those who obtain them from the War Department. * * * * March, the nominal trader at Fort Sill, is understood to be a special friend of the Secretary of War. This friendship, it appears, enables him to live at his ease at New York on an income of $18,000 a year, which is extorted from the soldiers and officers at the fort by the actual traders, to whom he "farms out" the privilege the secretary has given him. These traders, to make the enormous sum they pay to Marsh in addition to a profit for themselves, must of necessity charge prices which are little less than robbery. The facts stated in the above letter are vouched for by another officer of high rank, whose name is withheld because it would be unjust to force upon him a quarrel with the War Department.

Ida Zouda, a young Japanese lady, at school in New York, wrote a letter to the Japanese Gazette suggesting the following reform in her native country: 1st, the conversion of the whole population to Christianity; 2d, an increased importation of scissors; 3d, a restriction of taxation; and, 4th, the introduction of the American custom of wedding breakfasts.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—The city council meet this evening.

—Col. Higginson will lecture tonight at East Greenwich on The Almighty Dollar.

—The arrivals of vessels have been unusually scarce at this port for the past week.

—Miss Ross did not recite "The Beatitudes" at the Unitarian concert Sunday evening.

—Mr. Boyd is to get up a new directory for this city through the agency of David H. Weeden.

—A temperance meeting will be held at Sons of Temperance hall on Spring street this evening at 7½ o'clock.

—Mr. Charles Coddington who has been confined to his house for a long time is able to be out again.

—An omnibus of Masons will go to Portsmouth this evening to assist the brethren there in working the third degree.

—J. P. Robinson, of the firm of Woodruff & Robinson, of New York, was in town last evening as the guest of John D. Dennis.

—Stevens Post, Grand Army of the Republic have a meeting Thursday, to arrange to attend the funeral of the late Isaac Gifford.

—It is estimated that 2,800 pounds of fish are damaged of the cargo of the schooner Emma Johnson that put into this port on Sunday leaking.

—Col. W. H. Reynolds, a former Summer resident here has entered upon his duties as pension agent for Rhode Island in place of John L. Clarke, deceased.

—Steam was got up on the Providence yesterday afternoon. She will take the place of the Old Colony on the 15th inst. The Bristol will take the place of the Newport about April first.

—The Old Colony Railroad Company intends to put a train on the road in May that will make the distance between Newport and Boston in an hour and a half.

—Frank O'Brien, the insane man, mentioned in yesterday's NEWS, has been returned to Boston, the authorities here feeling that they had no right to care for him. He was sent to Boston as he came from there, without an escort.

—Persons desirous of learning telegraphy will be interested in a new advertisement today. Instruction is to be given by Mr. Foster, United States signal officer, an accomplished operator, and Mr. Flagg, the popular manager of the Western Union office, will also be connected with the institute.

—The Berger Family, who are to give another one of their elegant and unique entertainments in our city on Monday next, the 13th inst., are meeting with splendid success everywhere, and on their return visits their houses are crowded. At Lynn on the 28th ult., every seat in the hall was sold four days previous to the arrival of the company, and the same thing occurred at Salem, last night, according to a dispatch received in this city yesterday by Mr. Fowler, the company's agent.

SURPRISE PARTY.—That was a pleasant surprise party given to the Rev. M. Van Horne last night by many members of his sabbath school, on the recurrence of his birthday. The party numbered about fifty under the leadership of Mrs. Lois Williams. They called at the close of the prayer and inquiry meeting bearing baskets of fruit and refreshments, and spent the evening in singing and recitations. Very impressive features of the evening were the recitation of the exact number of Scripture texts, mostly promises, of the present age of the pastor and an original humorous invitation to the pastor to join the party by Master Cordy Grosby, and the presentation of two useful and valuable presents.

HORSE BREAKING.—Mr. Peckham now regrets that he did not keep quiet Saturday night and allow the burglars to enter his store, instead of frightening them away. Besides himself there were three able-bodied men in his house and they would have had a grand opportunity to immortalize themselves by lagging the thieves. The same night the store of Mr. Halpin on Spruce street and the store of Antoine Peters on Broadway were entered. From the former a small amount of money was taken and from the latter some candies. The police believe the culprits to be boys and that they are now on their track.

BELKNAP ABROAD.

WHAT THE LONDON PAPERS SAY OF THE DISCLOSURES.

LONDON, March 1.

The Times this morning says editorially of the Belknap scandal: "This event is the more grave because it is confirmatory of the suspicion which has long prevailed among the American people. Even we Europeans cannot but be struck with the altered tones in which Americans speak, if not of their institutions, at least of the men who have the present direction of them."

The News, alluding to the same subject, says the American political life seems to be in anything but a healthy condition. It refers to the whiskey fraud trials, the Emma mine scandal and the downfall of Belknap, and says that these scandals lift the veil from a class of society which it was hitherto pretty generally supposed had, as yet, escaped the impurities of the social strata below, and they lend one to fear that some of the worst vices of municipal government may be percolating into the Federal administration.

The Telegraph says: "Disclosures after disclosures, charges after charges, varying in degrees of truth, but with the same ugly and unlovard character, have lately darkened the commercial, religious, judicial and administrative institutions of the United States. Some have proved false, some true, and more await evidence. But the general effect beyond denial has been to bring a blush of shame and anxiety into the faces of all honest Americans, and to make countless friends of the Republic in this country silent and sorrowful when its enemies rejoice over these recurring revelations."

The Standard says: "Happily the countries are few where so gross an abuse of trust would be possible."

TIVERTON.

Messrs. Holmes & Waterman, of Fall River, have been holding a crockery and tin-ware auction at Stone Bridge, for the week past. The sales, however, were not very brisk.

At a recent meeting of the Central Baptist society, the committee on repairs of the church presented their report, from which it appears that the sum of $1,676 97 had been expended for the following named purposes.

Paid Jos. M. Dailing for carpenter labor, $149 15; J. W. Nichols & Co., for heating apparatus, $236 67; Samuel Manchester for mason work $56 81; J. D. Flint & Co., carpets, etc., $147 13; J. S. Paine, pulpit and furniture, $125; Albert Morton, painting and papering, $295; D. Bourfeil, lamps, $56 70; B. Barker & Co., lumber, $251 10; freight, teaming, &c., $61 39. Total, $1679 66.

Receipts for the payment of these debts have been as follows: Private subscriptions, $899 85; festivals, $659 70. Total, $1,659 55. Leaving a debt of $19 12 which is pledged and can be collected at any moment.

THE NEW CRUSADE.

The temperance movement recently begun in Marblehead is something remarkable. It is three months old; and out of a population of eight thousand, the signers of the pledge, including women and children, already number five thousand. The reform club, composed of men who have given up drinking, has over six hundred members, and what was generally known as a town where intemperance was very common has now thrown such influence the other way that the dram-shops are deserted, cases of intoxication are rare, and but few drunkards, it is said, are yet unconverted. The substantial evidence of this change was given on Washington's birthday, when, in a celebration very hearty and genuine for this historic town, with the whole population keeping holiday, with the remembrance of great revelry in previous years on this day, there was but one man arrested for drunkenness, and he was what the Marbleheaders, in their quaint dialect, called a "foreigner" from Chelsea.

The genuineness of this movement, as it has come to our knowledge, is shown in other ways. The hardness of the times has practically disappeared; the taxes are paid promptly; very few cases of poverty have come to the local authorities for help, and none where liquor was the cause. The reform has not ended with the giving up of drinking. Provision has been made for the entertainment of the working men and youths outside of saloons; reading and smoking rooms have been organized for use in the day and evening, and practical measures have been taken for the permanent lifting up of those who are down. The foremost men in drink have become foremost in efforts to elevate one another. The reform from one vice has been begun with the spirit of dependence upon God as the basis of personal regeneration, and the movement from the first has started from moral, if not religious, convictions. It has been the motto of the leaders in this reform that men cannot hold fast to the pledge unless the mind, heart and will are engaged in the work, and thus the whole movement has been based upon right principles. It is moral suasion. It is bringing men to sign the pledge and then teaching them how to keep it. It is the practical amelioration and what looks like the permanent elevation of this part of society.

The movement has some elements which thus commend it strongly. It is organized, not upon a political, but upon a moral basis. It takes hold equally of men's hearts and minds. It furnishes an offset to social drinking. It binds men together in good works for one another. In Essex county, in Gloucester, Salem, Lowell and other places, where a similar movement has been begun, it has already sent many men to places of religious worship who once spent Sunday in debauchery, and has been felt as an upward tendency in homes, in churches, in business, and throughout most departments of life. It has aimed to change public opinion by changing the wills and habits of those who help to make it. All these elements are commendable and permanent, and the movement has so far been marked by such good sense that it is likely to go through our commonwealth, and work great results. If it can go on as it has begun, keep clear of political influence, touch the hidden springs of society, work, where every great reform has its power, in people's wills and hearts, it will be what many have longed to see, and will win to itself, as substantial help, all the best elements in social life.

Much depends upon a leader, and the man who hastened to Marblehead from Bangor, with a "four-quart valise," as the Marbleheaders put it, to wipe out, if he could, one of the plague-spots in Massachusetts, has the strong points which qualify him for this work. Dr. Reynolds is a graduate of the Harvard Medical College, a physician by profession, in the prime of life, a man of strong sympathies and clear head, a man who has suffered personally the evils from which he now seeks to deliver men, who has given up his profession that he may devote himself to this work. His success has been very great, partly because he has the qualities which would make him a popular leader in any cause. It is scarcely to be expected that all the good he has been the means of doing will be lasting: but it deserves to be permanent, and, so far as we can learn, he adopts methods in his work that are altogether commendable.—[Boston Advertiser.

GOVERNMENT AND RELIGION.

Many worthy people cannot get the idea out of their heads that ours is a Christian government, and, as a natural corollary, that it is a Protestant government. It shows what a deep hold our religious convictions and habits take upon us. We have something left of the spirit of our Puritan ancestors—we want liberty for ourselves, but when we are called upon to give equal liberty to others, we hesitate. If it was your bull that gored my ox the case is plain, but if my bull gored your ox, we will see about it. "The American government, is it heathen or Christian?" asked a worthy clergyman the other day. No doubt he believed that he had put a question so incisive that there was no getting away from its conclusions. But our government is neither Christian nor heathen. It don't pretend to meddle with religious matters at all. It is a political establishment intended to secure protection for all alike, Christian or heathen. That is its best characteristic. It gives us all a fair chance in the world. It leaves all free to worship God according to the dictates of our own consciences. If whatever in it is good and true and enlightened has come from Christianity that is an evidence of the benefits Christianity has conferred upon the world. But its highest quality is freedom, and that is better than religion in a government. We have seen examples in abundance of governments that are religious and not free. We have seen how mischievous the purest church can become when it is allied with temporal power. It arouses the basest human passions to serve it, and finally becomes their subservient instrument. But our government is not heathen because it is not Christian. It is merely secular. It has no more religious character than a saw mill or a cotton factory. It does not trouble itself about such matters. It says to the Christian, "You are free;" to the Jew, "You are free;" to the Buddhist, "You are free." All are free so long as they do not interfere with the rights of others. Among those who a hundred years ago fought for American independence were Christians of all sects, Jews, Buddhists, and people of all sorts of religion and no religion at all. No government would do for a nation so composed that is not as broad as humanity itself. To attempt to fashion it by a sect—the best sect in the world—would be absurd. That this broad fact is not understood is evidenced by the efforts now and then made to amend the constitution, so that it may have a religious flavor, and by the constant protest which is made against every attempt to enlarge the boundaries of freedom, as in the schools. In the case of the public schools, we do not believe that the reading of the Bible impairs their efficiency, but we have no more right to enforce it upon those who believe it to be heretical than we have to force the children of Jews to work on the Jewish Sabbath. It is highly important that we should learn, all of us, that a government can be independent of religion, and that its independence is its highest recommendation. Hold on to your religion with all the tenacity you can bring to bear, but remember the best thing a government can give us is freedom. —[Boston Herald.

The Fitchburg (Mass.) Sentinel has this striking statement: "Since we published the statement a few days ago respecting a lady in Westminster whose annual expenses for clothing did not exceed eleven dollars per annum, one of our Fitchburg ladies, in high social position, has stated that her annual expense for clothing, doctor's and dentist's bills for the past eleven years has averaged less than seven dollars per annum.

The early Stages of Disease.

These conditions of the body in which its functions are not performed with healthful activity, but sluggishly and irregularly, are in fact the early stages of disease. They are, moreover, almost invariably the result of local or general weakness, which can only be permanently overcome by an efficient tonic. There is no medical fact more clearly established than that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are admirably adapted to infuse vigor into the debilitated system, and to restore regularity to its interrupted functions. As weakness and irregularity are sure to develop into disease, the Bitters, by overcoming them, are the means of averting far more serious evils. Debility must frequently manifest itself in the organs of digestion and evacuation, two important offices, whose vigorous performance is insured by the Bitters which also rectify weakness or irregularity of the bladder or kidneys, and fortify the system against malaria. mar1-1w-n&j

Dr. Schenck's Standard Remedies.

The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, and SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, and, if taken before the lungs are destroyed, a speedy cure is effected.

To those three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Pulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, relieving all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative; the alkali of which it is composed, mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of SIXTH and ARCH STS., Philadelphia, every Monday.

Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country. mar1-2m-n&j

Newport Daily News.

TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1876.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Senator Morrill, of Maine, Offered the War Portfolio.

WASHINGTON, March 6.

The President has offered the position of Secretary of War to Senator Lot M. Morrill, of Maine. His nomination was sent to the Senate today but not presented, as Mr. Morrill desired it to go over one day in view of certain contingencies which may constrain him to decline it. He is tonight consulting with some of his near personal friends, and they think he will notify the President of his acceptance in the morning. His appointment will be certain to meet general and most hearty approval here.

Rejoicing over Two Good Nominations.

There is general good feeling among the Republicans tonight over the two appointments of the day, namely, those of Mr. Dana and Senator Morrill. Both are regarded as such as will give much strength to the administration, and as first class in every sense.

A Prominent Democratic Politician Arrested for Fraud on the Treasury.

Gen. Craig, the person arrested for alleged fraud on the Treasury Department, is a prominent Democratic politician of Colorado, and a prominent candidate for United States Senator, provided the territory is admitted as a state.

The Financial Struggle.

The soft-money Democrats now think they can safely bolt the caucus bill, and with the help of Republicans who favor the repeal of the resumption act, force the defeat of the hard-money wing of their own party. The caucus committee gives no better promise of reconciling the Democracy than it did last week.

Mr. Blaine not a Candidate for Senator.

Mr. Blaine tells his friends that in case Senator Morrill accepts the appointment offered, he shall not become a candidate for the vacancy.

Articles of Impeachment Prepared.

The judiciary committee have agreed on articles of impeachment, but desire to take more testimony, since the escape of Marsh, before sending the articles to the Senate.

The Protection of Witnesses.

The committee also agreed to report in favor of restoring the old law for the protection of witnesses who testify before committees of Congress. They will ask for the immediate passage of the bill.

The Proposed Transfer of the Indian Bureau.

The appropriations committee tonight agreed to report in favor of a transfer of the Indian bureau to the War Department. The estimates are that the change will eventually effect an annual saving of four or five millions of dollars.

The Bureau of Education

Orville Grant

has been subpœnaed by the committee on war expenditures.

AN APPOINTMENT REVOKED.

Evans, the Post Trader at Fort Sill, Deprived of His Commission.

The following despatch was sent to Gen. Sheridan today:—

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, March 6, 1876.

To Lieutenant-General Sheridan, Commanding, Chicago:—

The President directs you to notify Evans, the post-trader at Fort Sill, that his appointment is revoked. He will be permitted to remain and sell goods at prices fixed by a council of administration till the appointment of his successor. The President desires you to direct a council of administration to meet and recommend to the Secretary of War, through military channels, a suitable person for post-trader. Letter by mail.

E. D. TOWNSEND, Adjutant-General.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE EMMA SCANDAL.

Albert Grant Coming to Washington to Refute Lyon's Testimony.

LONDON, March 6.

The Edinburgh Courant says Albert Grant intends to go to Washington and personally testify before the House committee on foreign affairs to the following effect: 1st, That he never told Lyon that he [Baron Grant] had given Senator Stevens 2,000 shares to become a director in the Emma mine and to assist in getting General Schenck's name on the board, and that Lyon's statement to the contrary to the committee is absolutely untrue; 2d, That he has never seen Lyon, nor had any communication with him in his life. 3d, That he never gave any shares to Senator Stewart, either to become a director himself, or to get General Schenck to be director.

THE ENFORCEMENT ACT.

BALTIMORE, March 6.

The grand jury in the United States district court today brought in indictments against forty-five persons for violation of the enforcement act of Congress by intimidating and hindering persons from voting at the state election held Nov. 2d last. Some twenty-five indictments had been previously found, among which was that of a member of the city council.

GENERAL BABCOCK AND THE ARMY.

[From the Nation.]

In estimating the effect which the result of his trial ought to have on General Babcock's future it will not do to forget that he held two relations to the public service. He is not merely the President's secretary, but is an officer in the army beside. The army has always been above all other professions a school of honor, and has professed to test, by a standard altogether nicer and more sensitive than that of courts of justice, the conduct of its members. What it asks is, not whether an officer has or has not committed an indictable offence, but whether he has been guilty of conduct "unbecoming an officer and a gentleman"; and in discovering this it is not bound by any technical rules of evidence or law. The military idea of the "officer and gentleman," as settled by the practice of military courts and by usage, especially excludes want of frankness or sincerity or truthfulness. The telegram, for instance, from Babcock to Luckey, telling him, at the very time that he was clamoring for an opportunity to clear himself, that his counsel in St. Louis must prevent his going there now at all hazards, was not sent by "an officer and a gentleman," and it was not the act of an officer and a gentleman, but that of a pettifogging criminal to have it ruled out as "privileged communication." And the whole farcical spectacle of a gentleman of high character, as the President declared him to be, accused of crime, first promising to explain all, and then sitting down as dumb as an oyster, and keeping all the evidence to himself, is, in the eye of military usage, utterly disgraceful.

It is before a military tribunal that General Babcock ought to be summoned now. The present position of his case makes his retention in the army a public scandal, and his request, if he has really made it, to be assigned to active duty, is a piece of impudence which, if there were no such thing as "politics," would probably result in the loss of his commission on the spot.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS.

NEWPORT, SC:

CLERK'S OFFICE, SUPREME COURT,
February 28th, 1876.

NOTICE is hereby given that a petition in equity has been filed in the said clerk's office by Samuel H. Ory, of Newport in said county, builder, against Thomas O'Connell, laborer, and Johanna O'Connell his wife, of said Newport, and the property herein after specified, and all the right, title and interest which said Johanna, and said Thomas and Johanna, in right of said Johanna, had in and to said property on January 23d, '75, for the allowance and enforcement of a lien created by the provisions of chapter 166 of the General Statutes of said state, entitled "Of the Lien of Mechanics" in upon and against that certain parcel of land with the appurtenances thereof, in said Newport, bounded Northwesterly on Warner street, 60 feet, Northeasterly on land of Patrick Mahan, 50 9-12 feet, Southeasterly on land of said Ory, 60 feet, and Southwesterly on Clinton avenue 50 feet, be the same more or less, or however otherwise bounded, and the two and a half story house or building standing on said land, for work and labor done and materials furnished to the amount or value of $235, with legal interest, in the construction and erection of said building on said land, by said Ory for said Thomas and Johanna, under written contract, and by the request of said Thomas with the consent of said Johanna (owner of said land) in writing, on and between January 22nd, 1875, and July 12, 1875. Said sum $235, being a balance, due and unpaid since said last mentioned day of said contract price for said building; and all persons having a lien by virtue of said chapter, or an attachment, or a mortgage or any other claim, on all or any part of said property, are hereby notified to appear before said Supreme Court at the term thereof to be holden at Newport within and for said county of Newport on the third Monday of March next, and make out their demands against the same. THOS. W. WOOD, Clerk.

FIRE ALARM REGULATIONS.

To send out an alarm.

Any person who discovers a fire is requested to immediately give the alarm by crying fire, and, going to the box nearest the fire, to send out a general alarm by procuring the key, unlocking the box, and firmly putting the hook down, once only, then closing the door, being careful to see that it is locked, and returning the key.

The person sending out an alarm from a box is requested to remain near said box until the first engine arrives, to direct the firemen to the exact locality of the fire.

Cautions.

Never pull a box if the small gong inside is striking or the machinery of the box is heard running.

Do not pull a box for a fire seen at a distance, or unless you are aware of the locality of a fire.

Key holders are requested not to allow their keys to be taken except by responsible parties.

Bell Ringers.

Bell ringers are engaged to ring the following church bells in connection with the telegraph alarm :—

The First and North Baptist, United Congregational and Emmanuel with instructions to ring their respective bells for five minutes immediately after the telegraphic alarm has completed its four rounds.

Recall.

Nine blows upon the telegraphic alarm bells will indicate that the fire is out and that the services of the department are not required.

Testing the Apparatus.

One stroke on the bells by the telegraphic alarm will simply indicate that the apparatus is in good order.

LOCATION OF BOXES AND KEYS.

Box No. 1.—On Lysander Stevens's house, Thames street, opposite Bridge street.

Keys at Lysander Stevens's and Daniel C. Denham's.

Box No. 3.—Mrs. Sylvanus Wilbour's house, corner of Touro and Spring streets.

Keys at Harwood E. Read's and O. T. Dubois.

Box No. 4.—Downing's Block on Downing street near Bellevue avenue.

Keys at George T. Downing's, Bellevue avenue, Silas Hayward's Downing street and William A. Williams's, Downing Block.

Box No. 5.—On J. T. Burdick & Co's store, corner of Thames street and Brown & Howard's wharf.

Keys at J. T. Burdick & Co's store, C. H. Burdick's, Thames street and Thomas Chambers's, corner Brown & Howard's wharf.

Keys also in the hands of the firewards, city marshal and all the members of the police force. nov2 long flight; and, after the first grate and jar of it upon her, she heard nothing of the laughing and twittering, of the suspended music, and the opening and shutting doors. The joyousness of the day, like sunshine breaking through storm, was nothing to her; she noted none of the fragrance of the flowers, none of the gay cries of the echoing voices; her thoughts were under that snow-heaped sod with Will. It seemed to her if she could only once see him, and see him alive, the very relief would kill her; but, oh, how hard it would be to go if he were in the breathing world! She longed for him back with fresh longing to take the stain and burden off from her; and then she longed for him back that he might just put his arms round her and take her, that she might rest in his presence. Why had she never loved him till he was lost? And now he would never know it. "Oh, Will, Will, Will!" she cried—and cried half aloud, all unaware—"if you only knew how I loved you? If you only forgave me—" And there the words were stayed by a pair of bearded lips, the arms she had wearied for were about her, her head was pillowed on a breast—Did the dead walk? did the grave surrender, then? Had he come from heaven to take her, to forgive her? Was it Will—with her father, with her sisters, crowding in behind him? Had he never died at all, but gone back from hospital to sheep farm, and only come at last drawn by some wild magnetism in the strength of her longing for him? The questions surged through her mind as the snow flakes surged outside, and then it seemed that he must be some great, accusing apparition, come only to destroy her; the world was reeling blackly away from her; and it was, may-be, nothing but the kisses on her lips that held her firm to life, that called her back to light and joy in Will Maunder's arms, on this one New year's in a thousand!

Mr. Carr.—A good story is told of a gentleman well known in town in connection with a late visit of his to a drug store. The gentleman's name is Carr. There are several Carrs in the city, however, and the given name of the particular one will not be revealed in this item for worlds. This Carr wanted some medicine for his family the other night after twelve o'clock and visited a drug store to obtain it. The drug store was closed, and he rang the bell vigorously. The druggist at once put his head out of an upper window and inquired, sleepily: "Who's there?" "Mr. Carr," responded the gentleman at the bell. "Missed a car!" Well, what's that to me, confound you? Stop ringing that bell and go about your business, man!" Down went the window and the druggist was lost to sight. The discomfited Mr. Carr was lost in amazement for a time, but finally seized the bell and rang it frantically. The druggist's head appeared at the window again. He was wide awake this time. "Who's there, now?" "Mr. Carr, I tell you!" "Who cares if you have? Get out of that, quick! If you're drunk and have missed a car it's your own lookout. Don't touch that bell again!" "But, I tell you, you idiot, I'm Mr. —— Carr!" "Oh, Lord! Why didn't you say so before?" The window went down again and the druggist soon appeared at the door to explain volubly that he'd supposed he'd been aroused by some drunken fellow who wanted sympathy. Possibly he gave Mr. Carr something to pacify him. Druggists keep pacificators on draught.—[St. Louis Republican.

"TRUTH is MIGHTY, and WILL PREVAIL."

Sworn Statement
—OF A—
BOSTON POLICE OFFICER

H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—From exposure I took sick about nine years ago with Rheumatic Fever, from which I suffered about four months. When I recovered from the fever I found myself suffering with pain in my side and constipation, which brought on the piles. I consulted a physician, and paid him over $300 for attending me, and all the while I was gradually growing worse. Then one physician after another was employed, until seven of the best physicians of Boston had taken my case in hand.

On consultation between several of the leading physicians, they concluded my complaint was asthma and general debility. I had great difficulty in breathing, and an inhaler was required to afford me breath. Through the treatment of one physician I took from 75 to 100 boxes of calomel pills, and faithfully tried all the medicine that each physician described. From my long sickness, and the vast amount of medicine used to overcome the great pain, my kidneys became badly affected, and I suffered excruciating pain in the small of my back, with great difficulty in passing my urine.

One physician said I was deceased all through my system, and he regretted that he could give me no hope for health. My suffering from indigestion was so great that it was impossible to keep any solid food on my stomach, and the whole nature of my food was broth from oatmeal.

I also took a prescription from a celebrated English physician, who said my trouble was Bronchitis and Dyspepsia. I took 18 bottles of medicine especially prepared for Dyspepsia, and I have used a great deal of medicine from apothecaries' prescription. I have taken Sarsaparilla until you could count the bottles by the dozen, and indeed I have given nearly all the popular advertised medicine a fair trial. I had a dreadful cough, and did not average over 2 hours' sleep a night for 8 years.

A brother policeman urged me to try Vegetine, but for a long time I refused, having got completely discouraged from taking so much medicine without any benefit; however, after urgent persuasion I concluded to try it, and before I had used one bottle I could eat and hold on my stomach a beefsteak, a thing I had not been able to do before for years; indeed, I obtained more substantial benefit from the first bottle of Vegetine than from all other medicines which I had taken. I kept on improving, and kept on using the Vegetine, until I was perfectly cured and able to do duty all day, eat and digest my food, slept well at night, and I am 40 pounds heavier than I ever was before in my life, and am, as I think, a living contradiction of the prophecies of the most learned medical talent of New England, for with all of their combined wisdom they could not accomplish so much as that simple vegetable medicine called Vegetine, to which I am indebted for health, life, and happiness.

EUGENE F. SULLIVAN,
367 Athens street, Police Station 4.

SUFFOLK SS., BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 22d, 1875.

Then personally appeared the above named Eugene E. Sullivan, and made oath that the foregoing statement is true, before me, HOSEA B. BOWEN, Justice of the Peace.

FURTHER PROOF.

FACTS WILL TELL

H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.:

Dear Sir—Allow me to say a word in favor of VEGETINE. During the past year I have suffered from a complication of diseases. I laid in bed from the 3d of November until the middle of the following June, and on an average did not sit up two hours a week; I had eight of the best physicians in the state, but got no help, and constantly grew worse. They agreed that I had heart disease, phthisis, pyæmia and kidney complaint, and could never be any better. I was reduced in weight 50 pounds, which is much for I am naturally thin.

In June, finding I was failing under the treatment of the physicians, I commenced the use of VEGETINE, through the earnest persuasion of friends, and I am happy to state, with good results. I have gained ten pounds in weight, and can sit up all day, walk half a mile and ride six.

I am greatly encouraged, and shall continue using the VEGETINE if I can get it. I am a poor man, but for the truth of this statement I refer to any man in Gilstown or vicinity. Yours, very thankfully,

A. J. BURBEOK,
August 1, 1875. Gilstown, N. H.

Tingley Automatic Heat Governor.

Price Reduced Until the First of July Next.

Price attached to furnace $10. Better pay for a Governor that will surely prevent the escape of poisonous gases from your furnace, than save your money, and breathe a tainted atmosphere, suffer from the inconvenience of coal dust, unevenly heated rooms, and danger from fire. You need a Governor more in the Spring months when you use the dangerous smoke pipe damper to check the fire.

Smith & Butler,
Landscape Gardeners, Florists, &c.
Bellevue Avenue, Newport.

Bouquets, Baskets, Cut Flowers and Choice Plants. Gardens laid out and kept in order by the day, month or year.

NEWPORT EXOTIC GARDEN.

WHERE can I find it? is sometimes asked by strangers, but never by old visitors.

Now is the time to secure your bedding plants. We never before had such a quantity and never such fine plants as this season, consisting of all the new and rare plants. All we desire, is to come and look and see for yourselves. Roses, Dracenias, Coleuses, Geraniums of all sorts, Carnations, Coleons, &c., all of these by the hundred or thousand. Hundreds of other varieties of bedding and foliage plants, all at low rates. Baskets, Stands, Vases, Sandinieres, A finelot of Ferns, Begonias, Caladiums, Palms, Euphorbias, Camellias and Azalias, Rose Buds by the hundred, and everything pertaining to a first-class Horticultural Establishment. ☞ All orders received this season for Bouquets, Baskets, Cut Flowers, and decorations for parties and weddings, received at the garden, as we have vacated our store on Bellevue av., to avoid extortionate rent. Trees of various sorts to be found in addition to the above. Galvin & Geraghty, Dearborn and Spring streets, Roxbury, Mass. nov18

REASONS

WHY YOU SHOULD PREFER TO INSURE

WITH THE OLD

INSURANCE CO. OF NORTH AMERICA.

PHILADELPHIA.

1. It is the Oldest Insurance Company in America,—having commenced business in 1794; and therefore entitled to your confidence on the score of Stability.

2. It has done a successful business for eighty years, thereby demonstrating the ability of its management.

3. It has uniformly maintained during its long career, the Highest Reputation for Integrity and Honorable Dealing, justifying thereby, full faith that your rights will receive fair and liberal protection.

4. It has paid Losses in cash, exceeding Thirty Million Dollars, without the deduction of a cent, or a day's delay—a sufficient evidence of the Wealth of its Resources, as well as disposition to meet promptly all liabilities.

5. It has a Cash Capital and Surplus of over $4,700,000, securely invested—an ample GUARANTEE AGAINST DISASTER, in the event of unusual and extraordinary losses, which have often swept away companies of limited means.

6. It insures all the better classes of property on Liberal Terms, for long or short periods, and settles all honest claims for losses Promptly and Equitably, at the Agency where the insurance is effected—observing in all its business relations, the Golden Rule.

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY.
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS.
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 75 State St., opp. Kilby St., Boston.

AFTER AN EXTENSIVE PRACTICE of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms, with despatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents, of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved Inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part, leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
